

SPECIAL REPORT SUBARTICLE

What stood out to you in 2012?

BY GREG BOUSTEAD

20 DECEMBER 2012

To compile SFARI.org's Year in Review, the news team asked leading experts in autism research to identify the biggest technical advances, noteworthy papers and hottest topics of 2012. We also prodded some of our favorite scientists to peer into the future.

Check out the complete package here »

Now I would like to know what you think. Do you agree with our choices? Disagree? What did we miss?

- What do you think were the most important papers published in the autism field this year?
- What were the biggest developments?
- What do you think will be the most important issues in the next year and beyond?

Share your thoughts in the comments section below.